Chips

All last week we yawned through classes, cutting some, attending others, but withal being extremely bored with education in general and George Washington in particular. We racked our mind to find the cause of our ennui, but no solution dawned until our glance lighted on the dusty calendar draped at an ungodly angle over our desk. Children, as the first person to discover this momentous fact in all Washington, District of Columbia, United States of America, the world, the universe, et cetera ad infinitum, we beg to announce that—

Spring is here!

Not that this is to be a raving on the ethereal beauties of the springtime, with fluttering birds and waving flowers (see Shelley, Keats, Wordsworth, and others), but as St. Patrick's Day draws near, and women's dresses and hats take on a verdant hue, we hie us hence to the auld sod where we may bask in the soft sunshine under the greenwood trees—ho hum, such a life.

With the spring, when a young man's thoughts turn to all sorts of fancies, the council of senior class presidents announces that the contract for class rings has been awarded. Under the present plan, the manufacturers offer to every person who fails to receive his ring four weeks after the order reaches the factory a dollar a day for each day overdue. Seems like a good time to go out of town, and collect a dollar a day for the vacation, since a ring obviously can't be delivered when the consignee is absent. We have taken out both a copyright and a patent on this idea, and infringements will be enthusiastically prosecuted.

And, anyhow, who ever heard of a senior who kept his ring more than a week? We've promised ours for fourteen months in advance already, and heaven only knows what we'll do before the Interfraternity Prom is over.

All of which reminds us that there's many a slip between the five-pound box of candy and the altar. Our girl friend tells us that an imposing-looking letter was received by one of the sororities last Wednesday. This missive was addressed to one "Mrs. Alfred Theta," 2007 G Street N. W., and comment was rife as to just who the lucky woman was, until some brilliant soul suggested that maybe it belonged to Alpha Delta Theta. So now the co-eds will have to wait a little longer to taste a box of Brownie's, Nunnally's, or Woolworth's.

The sassy colyum says that our friend Tommy Tompkins took a trip to Richmond and back last Monday. Strange; we always did like the fair state of Virginia, and we didn't see any one-day excursion advertised.

In this modern day and time, when the manly woman and the feminine man are breaking down our ideas on the inherent difference of the sexes, we note with honest pride the return of womanly frailty to the campus. The sororities have decided to set aside the competition in bowling in favor of that manly game, bridge. Now we expect cheering sections to pipe up under the leadership of a competent leather-lunged sister when some contestant, be it North, South, East, or West, gurgles faintly, "One Heart." As if anyone ever had more than one heart.

The excuse given for this change to a more dainty sport is that Kappa Delta won the Bowling Cup and since another cup has to be bought, and of course eventually won, a competition should be started where bluffing, rather than mere skill, should predominate.

Our impassioned sports editor will have to find some athletically inclined female to cover these bridge sessions, and the poor, innocent editor of the week will debate thoughtfully as to whether or not the story of the bridge contest properly belongs on page one or on the sports page. And as a mere man, we wonder if these afternoon affairs where the losers furnish tea (our suggestion) won't develop into fine gossip sessions. Maybe that's another reason for putting bowling in the discard.

Even blasé Washington, where an ambassador, congressman, senator, more or less, makes little difference to anyone, is to be torn by political pyrotechnics as The Hatchet fosters a poll of votes for promising presidential possibilities, who, if our judgment stands us in good stead, are mostly just promising these days. As a faint voice calling in the wilderness, we protest vigorously against this coming straw vote.

As a final proof that spring is here, we've definitely tucked our hat away in the moth balls, and are riding around in our namesake owned by Frank Kreglow, so we won't catch cold. DICK ROLLO.

STUDENTS TO GET CHANCE TO VOTE IN HATCHET POLL

Nation-Wide Straw Vote of Colleges Being Conducted by "The Independent"

BALLOT WILL APPEAR IN NEXT WEEK'S PAPER

Unique Poll Will Sound Out Student Opinion on Coming Presidential Election

As a part of a nation-wide straw vote, on the coming presidential election, The University Hatchet will conduct a poll of the opinion of George Washington University students in its next issue, March 21.

A printed ballot will appear in next Wednesday's Hatchet, giving the names of the five outstanding candidates of each party, arranged in such a way that every student here may indicate his choice. According to plans formulated by the Board of Editors of The Hatchet, ballots must be filled out and signed, and deposited in the mail slot in the door of The Hatchet Office not later than 7 p. m., Friday, March 23. All information will be treated as strictly confidential.

Ten Leading Candidates

The Independent, a weekly newspaper published in Boston, Mass., is sponsoring the poll. It is understood that all the leading college and university papers in the United States are cooperating in thus sounding out student opinion regarding the 1928 presidential race.

Five leading men from each party will figure in the balloting. Their names are: Republicans: Curtis, Dawes, Hoover, Lowden and Willis; Democrats: Donahay, Reed of Missouri, Ritchie, Smith and Walsh of Montana. As the student body of George Washington University is a cosmopolitan one, embodying students from every state in the Union, the results of the poll here should prove representative and more or less indicative of the ultimate outcome.

It is hoped by the Board of Editors that every student, as well as faculty member, will express his choice on the ballot. Since George Washington University is located in the Capital City, the results of the poll here will be watched with special interest.

BALLOTS SENT OUT FOR ELECTION OF TRUSTEES

Six Prominent Members of Alumni Have Been Nominated for Positions on Board

Nominations are being forwarded to more than two hundred George Washington University alumni members to select two of their members as members of the Board of Trustees. Vacancies of two members of the Board will necessitate elections, and preliminary ballots will be mailed for the first vote. The final casting of alumni ballots will be made one month hence.

Six prominent members of the alumni are up for election. William Bruce King, lawyer and member of the Board since 1912, comes up for re-election, as does Stephen E. Kramer, member of the Board since 1924.

Among the nominees are Gen. Avery Andrews, lawyer and banker of New York and president of the New York Alumni Association; Charles Hart, principal of Eastern High School; Judge Edward P. Henning, former Assistant Secretary of Labor, chairman of the endowment fund committee, and at present Federal Judge of District of Southern California; and Delos Smith, architect of this city.

Ballots will be sent again when the final nominations are made. Only those members of the alumni in good standing who have held degrees at the University for more than three years are entitled to vote for trustees.

Cherry Tree Proofs Available This Week

Plans for Popularity Contest Due for Radical Change; Snapshot Contest Continues

The photographer of the Cherry Tree will return the early part of this week with the proofs. All choices, however, must be made in the studio, as no proofs will be allowed to be taken out.

Plans for the popularity contest conducted by the Cherry Tree will be radically changed, although the new plans are still indefinite.

The snapshot contest of the Cherry Tree is still open. A prize of a free Cherry Tree will be given to the person who hands in the six best snapshots. Final date for entrants will be decided later.

MILLION FOR HARVARD CHAPEL
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (IP).—A million dollar chapel is to be erected on the Harvard campus as a memorial to the university's war heroes.

Learned Students to Teach Teachers As First of Math Club's Unique Features

Short Talks by Students Whose Names Are Unknown at Present Will Mark New Departure in University Mathematic Circles at Meeting to be Held Tonight

Something new in this century-old University is to be tried this evening, at the regular bi-weekly meeting of the Mathematics Club, when the student members of this intellectual group begin to expound Math to the Math professors themselves. Michael Goldberg, president of the club announces that there is no formal lecture arranged for tonight, but that there will be several short talks, by different students whose names are not divulged at the present time. This meeting to be at the club's usual room, Corcoran Hall 22, at 8 p. m. tonight and all students of mathematics, and others interested in that subject are invited to attend. The sessions are open to all, and there are no dues. Of course, members are not required to address the club unless they desire to do so. Tonight's meeting should prove particularly attractive to the students, who have the opportunity to hear their colleagues try to teach the teachers. A large attendance is expected.

Representatives from every sorority on the campus, and from the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes and several distinguished women of the University Faculty will be present. ## GLEE CLUB PLANS DUAL SING WITH COLUMBIA

Joint Concert to be Given at Washington Hotel on Saturday, April 14

The George Washington Men's Glee Club is preparing for a joint concert with the Glee Club of Columbia University, to be given Saturday, April 14, at the Washington Hotel.

The combined clubs should turn out some snappy entertainment, with the Columbia Banjo Club and the G. W. Novelty Dance Act as a background for the chorals.

This year's repertoire includes both heavy and light numbers, headed by Palestrina's "Adoramus Te," and "Close Harmony," by Geoffrey O'Hara. A pleasing feature of each concert is Elmer Brown's pianologue, composed of several of his song successes from "Not Yet Fleurette" and "Sharps and Flats." He is assisted in his offering by Earl Nalls and Jerry Slicker.

The present aim of the club is to present a well-rounded program for each of their two appearances at B. F. Keith's Theatre, one at the National Vaudeville Artists' Annual Midnight Show on Friday, April 13, and the other, a week's headline booking, early in June.

CHAPEL FOR FRESHMAN WOMEN

Dean Rose will hold a meeting of freshmen girls Wednesday, March 15, at 12 o'clock, in C. H. 29. This is the first one that has been held this semester.

G. W. DEBATERS MEET DAVIDSON TEAM TONIGHT

George Washington Hopes To Obtain Revenge For Last Year's Defeat

G. W. IS REPRESENTED BY FRISBIE AND HATCH

Subject is Protection by Force of Arms of U. S. Capital Invested in Foreign Lands

Arguing at home for the first time in several weeks, the George Washington Varsity Debaters are meeting a team from Davidson College tonight in Stockton Hall. The G. W. team hopes to obtain revenge for the defeat suffered last year at the hands of the Tarheels, who won a unanimous decision in an argument on Light Wines and Beer at that time.

The subject which has been selected for this meeting is "Resolved, That the United States should cease to protect by force of arms capital invested in foreign lands, except after actual declaration of war." This topic for discussion should be of particular interest at the present time, in view of the recent developments at the Havana Conference, and of the new turns in the Nicaraguan situation.

Visitors Prominent

The visiting debaters are very prominent at the North Carolina Institution. Robert C. Grady, their first speaker, is a Junior in the School of Liberal Arts. He is a staff member of both college publications, and is Secretary for Intercollegiate Debate. W. Kendrick Pritchett, his colleague, is also a Junior in Liberal Arts. He is very active in forensic and literary work and is Managing Editor of the weekly "Davidsonian." These two men have already debated Hampden-Sydney College, and will finish their northern trip with a contest at the University of Pittsburgh.

The Colonials, who will oppose this pair are Carl Frisbie and Douglas L. Hatch. This is the first year in debating at G. W. for both of these men, although Hatch has been on teams representing the University of Utah. Hatch is a Junior in Columbian College and is a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity. Frisbie is a Junior in Columbian College, and is also attending the Law School. Both are active in the Columbian Debating Society.

Two Debates Scheduled

Rutgers College and New York University will furnish opposition to the Colonials in two simultaneous debates to be held next Monday, March 19. The New Brunswick school will send a team here, while the contest with the New York team is to take place in that city.

The subject for the Rutgers debate is the same as that for the meeting with Davidson College. In this encounter, George Washington will attempt to wipe out the loss sustained by the G. W. debaters who visited Rutgers last year. The debate is scheduled to begin at 8:15. It will be held in Stockton Hall.

Following these meetings, several other home debates will be held, according to Manager Hoagland. The visitors will be representatives of Ohio Wesleyan University and of Colgate University, who will be here on March 21 and March 23, respectively.

INTERFRAT PROGRAMS PROMISED MARCH 23

"Razberry," Satirical Sheet Edited By Pi Delta Epsilon, to Appear at Prom

Programs for the Interfraternity Prom, which will be held at the Willard Hotel on Friday evening, March 30, between the hours of 9 and 1, will be given out at least one week before the Prom so that they may be made up before that evening. This idea is carried out at many of the universities throughout the country, and has proved a decided success. The members of the various fraternities who are expecting to attend the Prom are urged to buy their tickets early.

The "RAZZBERRY," satirical sheet of George Washington University, which is published by members of Pi Delta Epsilon will appear at the Interfraternity Prom this year. Copies will be sold by members of that fraternity during the intermission.

Features Promised

Several features will mark this year's Prom in the form of special entertainment and the award of the cups won in the interfraternity athletic series. An arrangement is being made by John Slaughter, leader of the orchestra for the Prom, of many of the popular songs of the various fraternities, which will be played during the evening.

The committee in charge of the Prom is composed of George Southern, Delta Theta Phi; Frank Smith, Delta Tau Delta; George Von Dachenhausen, Phi Sigma Kappa; Verne MacDonald, Theta Delta Chi; and Don Iglehart, chairman, Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

COUNCIL'S PLAN FOR CONFERENCE GETS UNDER WAY

Conference To Assist Women In Choosing Vocations Set For April 16

INFORMATION WANTED BY ADVISORY COUNCIL

Speakers Qualified to Discuss Subjects Vital to Women of University Selected

Plans for a vocational guidance conference are now under way for the women of George Washington during the week of April 16, by the Women's Advisory Council.

The Council is endeavoring to give assistance to those women who have not yet decided upon a vocation. Speakers will be selected who are qualified to discuss those subjects upon which the women of the University desire information.

All the girls in the University who are in need of assistance in the selection of a career and who desire to take advantage of competent advisers, are requested to send the following information to the Women's Advisory Council in care of Dean Rose's office.

Information Wanted

1. Name.
2. In which academic group are you registered?
3. What is your major?
4. Name in order your preference three occupations which you are considering.
5. Have you studied these occupations?
6. How?
7. Have you definitely decided on one of the three?
8. Would you need further training in addition to your college degree?
9. If so what graduate work will you do?
10. Would vocational conferences under proper supervision help you in your decision?
11. In what other occupations are you interested?
12. Add any suggestions you may have for such a conference.

Result of Requests

This conference is the result of a number of requests made to the Council for such assistance in selecting a life work. The speakers and the subjects for group discussion will be selected after the information requested above has been carefully tabulated.

The number of occupations open to women has been greatly increased in the last few years, and a number of these new vocations will be explained for the benefit of those who have not decided upon what they are best fitted for.

An effort will be made to make these talks and discussions practical. Specific information of the preparation required, manner in which the application for a position should be made, and the opportunity for advancement will be given.

For those who wish more information than may be given in the speeches and group discussions, personal conferences with the speakers may be arranged.

This conference is especially designed for junior and senior students, who must make a decision in the near future; but it should be of great value to freshman and sophomores, who still have time to plan their college programmes to be most beneficial for their future work.

The time at which these meetings will be held will be arranged to accommodate both the full-time and part-time students.

Dean Rose has a number of books for the benefit of the students who have some idea of what they wish to do, but who would like to study the situation more carefully.

Ruediger Plans Way To Better Education

Proposes That Teachers See Education as a Whole and Students' Individual Needs be Supplied More Definitely

Dean Ruediger in his article in "School and Society" for March 3, expresses the belief that "the large gaps in the education actually received by the student," are due to the present educational system. At present, the various elementary schools, high schools, colleges and universities attempt to organize their curricula with little regard for past or future training. The result is that there is much needless emphasis on some studies and a total omission of others. This, thinks Dean Ruediger, is disastrous to a well-rounded education. He proposes two changes to bring about a better state of affairs.

"These are, first, that all teachers, especially those above the primary grades, learn to see education as a whole, and, second, that the provisions for those who are going through to the end of liberal education and for those who are aiming to branch out into vocational life along the way be differentiated more definitely."

ROUND PEGS

For a number of years we have been hearing much ado about the misfit, that is, the person who is doing work for which he is intellectually and temperamentally unfit. There is little that can be done after the person is really started in work, but something can be done for the person who is just starting out in life.

The real trouble seems to be that after leaving school the first opportunity which comes along is accepted. Of course this is often necessary for financial reasons. Much might be done, if the persons had any real idea of the type of work for which he is best suited.

Many colleges take the stand that the college course leading to the A. B. degree is for giving academic training and not vocational training. This is perhaps the correct attitude, but the day has passed when the college graduate was a man who could pursue his studies in private after he left college. The number of people who are taking a degree nowadays as contrasted with the good old English system of going to college for the acquisition of a point of view is greatly diminished. If the college does not give vocational training, it ought, at least, to leave the student in the position of knowing where his talents lie. And while definite vocational training need not be given, there are a number of courses in the curriculum of a university which might be of infinite value to the later life work of the graduate, if he knew about them early enough to include them in his college course.

The number of requests which have come to the Women's Advisory Council for assistance in selecting and planning for a future occupation has led that body to plan a conference, which will endeavor to give practical assistance to the women in the University. The idea of vocational guidance is one of the fine by-products of modern psychology. Undoubtedly there will be a number of people who will not realize what such a conference can do for them. There are always people who are in the rear-guard of the thought and movements of their times.

If, however, there are five people who are actually benefited by this conference, we feel that the Advisory Council "will not have lived in vain."

BETTER DIRECTION

With the alluring title (at least to those who are not mathematically clever) of  $2 \times 2 = 5$ , the varsity play gets under way. This is the first year that the dramatic organization has concentrated all its energy upon one play, and the results should be a more finished performance in acting and an improvement in the execution of the settings.

Under the direction of the new coach the Troubadours gave a much better finished performance this year than they had given in the three years of their existence. This improvement can be traced to the better quality of the direction this year.

Thus with a better director and the effort of the whole organization from which to select a cast, the play this year should be the best ever.

THE one point in favor of university life is that something can always be counted on to distract the student mind (?) from earnest concentration upon its studies. At present, fraternity dances, initiations, and various other functions are doing their part to tide things over until Easter arrives with more exciting offerings.

POTENTIAL PROFS

No. 14—Donald Earl Crandall

Military precision didn't appeal to Donald Earl Crandall, adopted son of Prof. Norris I. Crandall, one of the campus' most confirmed bachelors. Consequently, Donald was especially glad to get home from the McDonogh School, and enter the Washington schools where he could be near his dad.

Not that Donald is rebellious against authority, but being home, he has more opportunity for unrestricted fun such as swimming and other sports which boys of his age like. School naturally is a necessary evil, and Donald is in the high sixth grade, the place where the average twelve-year-old boy should be. But school is only endured for the pleasure that comes from a vacation therefrom.

In the summer, Donald is free from school, books, and all the rest of the old ditty, and can go to camp, where there's swimming and boating and eating and yelling and sleeping—all favorites of those who are barely a dozen years old.

Being a potential prof hardly appeals to Donald, for he has shown no particular desire for architecture or history or science, but if reports may be believed, Donald will be glad to take over the position as swimming instructor in the distant future when the University acquires a tank and a swimming team.

AN ADDITION TO CAMEL SMOKE-LORE

WE SUBMIT the sad case of the freshman in zoology, who, when asked to describe a camel, said, "A camel is what you wish you were smoking while you try to think of the right answers." He flunked zoology—but he knew his cigarettes. For in time of trial or time of joy, there's no friend like Camels.

The subtle influences of choice tobaccos upon the smoke-spots of mankind have been carefully studied, identified, and blended smoothly into Camels—the finest of cigarettes. And we'll bet an alkafitch on this: Camels have just the taste and aroma to pack your smoke-spot with the "fill-fulment" every experienced smoker seeks. Got an alkafitch you want to lose?

PENNSYLVANIAN TEAM DEFEATS CO-ED SEXTET

Swarthmore's Speedy Floor Work Overwhelms George Washington Players

VISTOR PLAYERS LEAD DURING ENTIRE GAME

Turnbull and Omwake Show Swift Passing in Center; Crumley Scores Eight Baskets

The Swarthmore Sextet overwhelmed the George Washington women basketball team in a game in the Colonial Gymnasium on Saturday evening, March 10. The final score was 63 to 20.

The first few moments of play gave Swarthmore a decided advantage, and they never once let up the relentless rate at which they first began to pile up points. The George Washington team found itself battling against the skillful floor work and co-operation of their opponents, and were unable to break the 3 to 1 ratio of points which persisted from the beginning to the end of the game.

Jolls Star Forward

Jolls led the visiting team with fourteen baskets to her credit, while Rickard was a close runner-up by sinking thirteen baskets and one point on a foul throw. These two forwards showed their versatility by sinking baskets from every possible angle and position on the floor.

Although there was little scoring on the part of G. W., the work in the center territory with Turnbull and Omwake playing to each other was speedy, especially against the worthy opposition of Seiger and Walton of Swarthmore. Faunce played her usual strong defensive game, giving the opposing forwards more than a little trouble.

Visitors Take Lead

The play opened by the ball being carried directly to the Swarthmore goal for two baskets in quick succession. This example was followed by the Colonial team when Crumley also put in two pretty shots for George Washington. From then on, however, the playing was more irregular and George Washington never was able to approach the score of their opponents. The first quarter ended with a score of 16 to 6.

George Washington entered the second quarter with a fine display of spirit, which failed to materialize on the score board. Swarthmore's swift passing, skillful guarding and clever shooting, supplemented by several ineffectual shots for the Colonials, brought the score at the end of the half to 33 to 12.

At the beginning of the second half, Lawton was put in for McGregor on the home team, and Harvey for Walton on the Swarthmore side. The quarter displayed a series of splendid shots for Swarthmore, interspersed by one basket apiece for the George Washington forwards. The quarter ended at 49 to 16.

Final Score 63 to 20

Swarthmore opened the last quarter by substituting Walton for Harvey, Bennett for Rickard, Tilly for Salmon. Crumley opened the play with a pretty shot, but against the invincible force of Swarthmore, which was kept up to the last whistle, George Washington was unable to close up the wide discrepancy evident in the score at all times during the game and the play ended at 63 to 20.

The chief interest in the game was in the speedy work on both sides in the center territory, where Turnbull and Omwake held out valiantly against the swift passing of the opponents.

The summary:

Swarthmore (63) G. W. (20)
Jolls ..... F ..... Crumley
Rickard ..... F ..... McGregor
Seiger ..... S ..... Omwake
Walton ..... S ..... Turnbull
Salmon ..... G ..... Faunce
Felter ..... G ..... Brandenburg

Substitutions: George Washington: Zimmerman for Brandenburg, Lawton for McGregor; Swarthmore: Harvey for Walton; Walton for Harvey; Bennett for Rickard; and Tilly for Salmon.

Goals: Two-pointers, Jolls, 14; Rickard, 13; Bennett, 4; Crumley, 8; McGregor, 1; Lawton, 1. One-pointers: Rickard, 1.

Referee, Parry; umpire, Haugen.

Splinters From SPORIDOM

Matrimonial Agency at G. W.

A New Slogan

Doc is Greatly Puzzled

The Solution

By DOC STEVENS

The secret is out at last!! George Washington University has a qualified matrimonial agency of tried and unquestionable quality.

Famous for its custom of straight shooting, the Colonial rifle teams are just as celebrated, if not more so, for a habit just as abiding. On a recent visit to the rifle range I saw a slogan on the board, "Join the rifle team and get married!" "What a foolish slogan for a bunch of sharpshooters," thought I to myself. I have been confronted on every street corner with the screaming slogan, "Join the Navy and see the world," and thought nothing of it because I took for granted that such an experience might well befall a patron of the funnels and port holes.

That a rifle team should have such a slogan had me puzzled. Why should they have such a slogan? There was so much mystery surrounding the slogan and so much fascination that I was able to do little or nothing but think of it—now don't misunderstand me, I wasn't thinking of taking the author at his face value and of joining the team, far from it! I merely was trying to find a hidden meaning if such a meaning it had.

But it was not for long that I should be one of the uninitiated, for I have a system, a formula for every emergency which might present itself. I finally sat down determined to solve the problem and at once I started to repeat, "Join the rifle team and get married—Marriage, marriage, matrimony, monogamy, nuptials, wedding-bells—rifle team—spousal—union, wedding, bene-dict, bride—rifle—femecover—team—neogamist, betroth, connubial, rifle team, endogamy," this I repeated faster and faster until my head reeled and the whole world seemed to be marching to the altar to the monotonous tune of my endless chant.

Ah! at last I was reaching the conclusion that was the inevitable thing, "Join the rifle team and get married!" indeed, it seems the inevitable result.

Walter Stokes started things back in December of 1925, when he, Olympic champion, medical student, and coach of the Buff and Blue team, married Katherine Edmonston, ex-captain of the Colonial varsity rifle team.

In June of 1926 Sophia Waldman, then captain, was married, and the following December Edna Kilpatrick, who managed the squad while Sophia was captain, was married.

The well known Riley twins didn't wait for the enchanted months of June or December. Hugh, captain, married in the fall of '26, and Thad, ex-captain, experienced the ceremony last spring.

And now we come to the final and latest chapter in our little romance in which two more come to do homage to the romance and tradition of the rifle range. This time neither is captain or manager, so they had to choose one of the conventional months.

In the balmy month of June, Bob Leighey, third year varsity man, high man on the squad, and no-trump champion of these United States, is to marry Marjorie Folsom, for two years a member of the squad and winner of fifth place in the National Individual contest this year. It is a coincidence that both Bob and Marjorie won medals at Camp Perry, Ohio.

And so things roll merrily on. I had up to this time been pulling for Three-Spades Parsons to win the individual high honors of the men's squad, but now I have given my support to Leighey because the beautiful prize which is being offered would, indeed, look well over the fireplace.

No matter what we may do, or say, or think, the Colonial shots will go on breaking records and getting married, and so we wonder who will be next—O, yes! there are still many who are eligible.

Golf Tournament Is Planned For Women

Melville Shorey, G. W. Student and Professional Golf Player Will Coach Team

A golf tournament for women of George Washington University is being planned by Mrs. Russell for the spring season. A meeting will be held on Wednesday evening at 7:45, in the gymnasium for those girls interested in improving their game or learning to play.

Mr. Melville Shorey, a professional golf player at East Potomac Park and a well-known player in the amateur golf circles of Washington, has offered his services as instructor of the George Washington girls. He is a student at the University and will cooperate with Mrs. Russell and Miss Davis, athletic instructors, to place golf among the major women's sports.

In compliance with the trend of athletics in the University, there will be group instruction before a team is picked. After picking the team, instruction will be continued for the members of the prospective team and the remainder of the group. Positions on the team will be open to challenge.

Practices will be held twice a week with instruction at the East Potomac Park links.

G. W. RIFLEMEN WIN OVER NAVY

Defeat of Naval Academy Tenth Consecutive Victory of Season For Colonials

OUTCOME IS UNEXPECTED

Match Hardest of Season and Proved Capabilities of Team Under Strain

The G. W. Riflemen shot their way to their tenth consecutive victory by defeating the Naval Academy at Annapolis last Saturday, 1350-1334. G. W. carried off both high individual and team honors in the fiercely contested match. Naval Academy jumped into an early lead and held this lead until the match was more than half completed. It was then that the G. W. men showed their indomitable fighting spirit and gradually overcame the margin separating the teams, crept steadily ahead until at the end of the match the Navy boys were trailing by a comfortable sixteen-point margin. Not until the last G. W. man had finished was the standing of the two teams definitely known.

This match was undoubtedly the hardest yet fired and showed the capabilities of the team under strain. The team previous to the match had been expected to outpoint the Naval Academy in the standing position by a sufficient lead to win the match against higher kneeling and prone scores. However, Navy suddenly showed unexpected strength in this position and left the fate of the match depending on the kneeling and prone stages. G. W. this time upset the odds and proceeded to defeat Navy in their own field.

Walter Stokes, officially known as Walt, assisted by T. A. Riley, former member and captain of the team, coached the G. W. team. Lieut. Commander John R. Palmer and Lieut. Clarence E. Doegell coached the Navy team.

Individual scores of the two teams follow:

G. W.	S't'g.	Kn'g.	Pr.	T'l.
G. B. Campbell	89	92	98	279
H. E. Riley	84	92	98	274

WOMEN RIFLERS DOWN PENN STATE AND MAINE

Rifle Team is Shooting in Dot and Circle National Championship Matches

The George Washington University Women Riflers scored 25 points higher than Penn State in a telegraphic match on March 3, when they shot 493 to their opponent's 468. On the same day they defeated the University of Maine 493 to 466.

On Saturday, March 10, the Women's Rifle Team began shooting in the Dot and Circle National Championship matches. These matches are sponsored by the Dot and Circle Rifle Fraternity and entrance is by invitation only. Last year, which was the Colonial aggregation's first appearance in the matches, G. W. won first place. The team which wins for three consecutive years will keep the cup which is offered as a prize.

Tryouts for this meet were held and seven girls were picked to compose the team.

Three big rifle matches remain on the George Washington schedule according to the manager, Betty Clark. They are as follows: March 17, University of Kansas; March 24, John Tarleton, Texas; March 31, University of Maryland and Drexel.

YALE COACH IS ALUMNUS

A NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP).—Marvin A. Stephens, 1925, has been appointed head coach at Yale to succeed Tad Jones, football mentor here for a period of three years. Stephens has been an assistant coach at Yale since he played on the championship team of 1923.

HEAVY SCHEDULE FOR TRACK SQUAD

Manager Blackman To Enter Men In Short And Long Runs

VETERANS IN GOOD FORM

Annual Interclass Track and Field Meet Planned for Late in April

The Penn Relays at the University of Pennsylvania on April 27 and 28, top a card of four meets which has been arranged for the Colonial track squad. The other engagements will be against University of Maryland and Catholic University in a triangular meet at College Park, May 5, Catholic University at Brookland on May 12, and Johns Hopkins and Galaudet in another three-cornered affair at Kendall Green on May 26. May 19 is the only open date.

It was announced today by Manager Steve Blackman that men would be entered in the 100 and 200-yard events as well as in the half-mile, mile and two-mile runs. Several men are slated to enter the 220-low hurdle races. It is also expected that the Colonials will be well represented in the usual field events such as the shot put and the hammer throw.

The regular squad which was left from last year has been training regularly since the first of January and are now beginning to round into fine shape for the contests which face them. Just as soon as the weather permits out door training the squad will hold regular workouts on the Georgetown University track. It is expected that this further step in training will be possible by the end of March.

A general call for candidates will be made soon after or possibly before the inter-class track and field meet which will take place late in April, the possible date of April 21 not having been set upon finally. This annual event has proven to be a great developer of green or unknown material in years past and it will this year, no doubt, bring to light new material of sufficient strength to fill out the squad which has been weakened somewhat through graduation of some of the members.

The one-year rule will be strictly adhered to in track as well as in football and basketball. No person not having completed one full year at the University will be considered for the squad, nor will any man with more than three years of varsity competition be used.

In Floyd Pomeroy, Wilbur Baker, Ed Fairman, Winton Elliot, Leslie Stevens, Charles Smoot, Jim Sutor, Horace Domigan and Miller, Coach Tom Proby has a group of seasoned veterans upon which to base his hope for a strong team.

CAREY TOPS CAGEMEN IN INDIVIDUAL SCORES

Slim Goodson Follows With Total of 102 Points; Allshouse Third

Jimmy Carey leads the other members of the Colonial basketball squad in individual scoring with a total of 119 points. Orr "Slim" Goodson, range center, comes second with a total of 102 points to his credit. Allshouse, who got a late start and played in only ten of the eighteen games, has a high game average with 72 points as his total. Sapp, Lope-man and Rangley are grouped close to a 50-point record.

Goodson leads the field in matter of foul goals with a total of 30. Carey is his closest rival with 17 to his credit. Goodson, Carey, Lope-man and Perry were the most prominent offenders in the division of personal fouls committed, having infringed the rules 39, 33, 31 and 30 times respectively.

A composite table of statistics for the 1927-28 season is found below. This table contains all players who saw service in one or more of the eighteen games.

STATISTICS GIVE TEAM'S RECORD

Colonials Have Taken Eleven Out of Eighteen Games of Season's Heavy Schedule

C. U. GAMES DARK SPOTS

Team Faced Hard Season With Heavy Schedule and Bad Breaks

With the end of the regular basketball season comes the realization that the George Washington Colonials did themselves justice in winning 11 out of 18 games to turn in one of the best seasons ever experienced at G. W.

In winning 11 out of 18 games during the past season the Colonials compiled for themselves an average of 61.1 per cent, which under ordinary conditions is a good percentage in any man's league. It will be noted that both among the games won and among the games lost the difference in score is only a point or two, which is a fair indication of the exciting brand of ball offered by the Buff and Blue quintet.

The fact that the opponents have scored 531 points to 522 for the Colonials may be attributed to two games against the powerful Catholic University five in which the Cardinals in the first instance scored a total of 40 points and in the second a total of 52 points. The C. U. games are in fact the only real dark spots on the Colonial record for 1927-28.

Taking into consideration the heavy schedule, a new system of coaching, and the loss of three stellar players in Sapp, Lopenan, and Perry after the mid-year examination, the following record is a good one:

G. W. . . . .	13	Bridgewater . . . . .	13
G. W. . . . .	34	Navy . . . . .	23

Lured by Aroma of Neighbor's Tobacco

Boston, Mass.,
April 21, 1927

Larus & Bro. Co.,
Richmond, Va.
Gentlemen:

This morning I had a smoking adventure worth recording.

Next to me in the smoking car a gentleman was puffing his pipe contentedly. I was not smoking at the moment, and the aroma of his tobacco intrigued me exceedingly. For twelve years I had smoked Edgeworth without being tempted by any other brand, but the fragrance emanating from the pipe of the gentleman beside me was so agreeable that I could not resist the temptation to speak of it.

"That is wonderfully fragrant tobacco you have there," I remarked. "Would you mind telling me the name of it?"

"It is Edgeworth," he answered. We then congratulated each other upon our mutual good taste, and I decided that I would continue to use his brand and mine.

Sincerely yours,

THETA UP'S AND SIGMA PHI EPSILON BOWL FINALS

Theta Upsilon Omega and Sigma Phi Epsilon will roll the final match of the Interfraternity Bowling series at Convention Hall, Thursday evening at 8.30 p. m.

Both the fraternities have won in their respective leagues by good margins, so that they stand out easily as the two best teams of all the fraternities.

RIFLE TROPHY IS WON BY MARTHA BENENSON

Three Teams Are Chosen to Stage Women's Inter-Class Rifle Matches

Martha Benenson captured the trophy awarded to the high-point shooter in the Beginners Rifle match which was shot in three stages with short guns, lasting from February 7 to 21.

The four high scores in the match were Martha Benenson, Caroline Seibert, Doris Gott and Nancy Griswold with Jonkin, Emily Mitchell and June Bethune following close behind. These girls will be placed on the inter-class team, which is composed of non-varsity shooters.

Practice for the inter-class matches will begin immediately. The prone position and long guns will be used exclusively in these encounters. From the participants in the inter-class meets, the material for next year's varsity team will probably be selected.

The high scores were:

	Offhand	Prone	Total
Benenson . . . . .	206	268	474
Seibert . . . . .	188	280	468
Gott . . . . .	198	267	465
Griswold . . . . .	186	277	463

Local S. A. E. Chapter Fetes at Racquet Club

Washington City Rho Chapter Celebrates Seventy-second Anniversary of Founding

The Racquet Club was the scene of the celebration of the seventy-second anniversary of the founding of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. The celebration was in the form of a banquet by the Washington City Rho chapter last Friday evening.

Senator Key Pittman, toastmaster, Senator Pat Harrison, Representative Arnold, Judge Howry, and Colonel Noble Wiley, were the principal speakers of the evening. The music was furnished by a five-piece orchestra, under the direction of Kenneth Texter, composed entirely of active members and pledges.

Washington City Rho chapter at George Washington University was the first Greek letter organization to be established at that institution, then known as Columbian College. This was in 1858, two years after the founding of the fraternity at the University of Alabama. The G. W. chapter is known as the "chapter that lived through the Civil War."

During the war the president and many members of the faculty were on the roll of the chapter. The lack of fraternity men in Columbian College caused the withdrawal of the chapter in 1869. In 1905, the chapter was re-established at George Washington University from a local which had been active on the campus for many years.

Alpha Chi Sigma to Hold Dance March 24

Visiting Rifle Team to be Feted at Informal Dance in Corcoran Hall 1

Alpha Chi Sigma will entertain with an open dance on Saturday, March 24. The dance is to be one of the largest and incidentally the lowest priced dances ever held on the campus by a single fraternal organization.

In addition to the G. W. students who will attend, members of the rifle teams visiting the Intercollegiate Team Championship Matches being held here have been invited. This was done in order to assist the rifle team in entertaining the teams which will be its guests on that date.

The dance is to be informal and will be held in Corcoran Hall from nine to twelve on the twenty-fourth. Admission will be seventy-five cents for men, but due to the unusual nature of the entertainment, ladies will be admitted without charge.

SWIMMING TEAM HOLDS MEET

The girls' swimming team will meet Sullins College, April 21, instead of April 1, as was stated in last week's Hatchet.

Practices are being held every Tuesday and Friday from 4 to 4.30, at the Y. W. C. A. at K and Seventeenth Streets. The team has not been definitely picked, and places are still open for girls who wish to make a place on the swimming team.

INTERSORORITY BRIDGE GAMES GET UNDER WAY

Two Girls From Each Sorority To Play Throughout Entire Tournament

LEAGUE WINNERS TO PLAY ON MARCH 27

Bronze Plaque Will be Awarded to Final Winner; K. D. Retains Bowling Cup

The Intersorority Bridge Contest started last evening with eight sororities playing. The eleven sororities have been divided into two leagues with five sororities in one league and six in the other.

League No. 1 is composed of Kappa Delta, Pi Beta Phi, Delta Zeta, Alpha Delta Pi, Gamma Beta Pi, and Zeta Tau Alpha. League No. 2 is composed of Alpha Delta Theta, Sigma Kappa, Chi Omega, Phi Delta and Phi Mu.

Schedule of Games

A schedule of games has been arranged by Julia Denning, who has charge of the contest, and is as follows:

League No. 1: Tuesday, March 13, Gamma Beta Pi vs. Alpha Delta Pi and Delta Zeta vs. Kappa Delta; March 14th, Gamma Beta Pi vs. Delta Zeta and Alpha Delta Pi vs. Kappa Delta; Thursday, March 15th, Gamma Beta Pi vs. Zeta Tau Alpha and Alpha Delta Pi vs. Pi Beta Phi.

Friday, March 16th, Gamma Beta Pi vs. Pi Beta Phi and Alpha Delta Pi vs. Delta Zeta; Saturday, March 17th, Gamma Beta Pi vs. Kappa Delta and Alpha Delta Pi vs. Zeta Tau Alpha.

Tuesday, March 20th, Delta Zeta vs. Zeta Tau Alpha and Pi Beta Phi vs. Kappa Delta; Wednesday, March 21st, Delta Zeta vs. Pi Beta Phi and Zeta Tau Alpha vs. Kappa Delta; Thursday, March 22nd, Pi Beta Phi vs. Zeta Tau Alpha.

League No. 2: Tuesday, March 13th, Alpha Delta Theta vs. Sigma Kappa and Chi Omega vs. Phi Delta; Wednesday, March 14th, Alpha Delta Theta vs. Chi Omega and Phi Mu vs. Sigma Kappa; Thursday, March 15th, Alpha Delta Theta vs. Phi Delta and Phi Mu vs. Chi Omega.

Friday, March 16th, Alpha Delta Theta vs. Phi Mu and Phi Delta vs. Sigma Kappa; Tuesday, March 20th, Sigma Kappa vs. Chi Omega and Phi Delta vs. Phi Mu.

Final Game March 27

Two girls are to be selected from each sorority to play the games and the sorority winning the most number of games in each league will play the winner in the other league. The two girls selected may play all of the games, or different girls may play in the various games scheduled. There will be four rubbers for each game. Scores are to be handed in to Julia Denning after each game played.

The final game will be on Tuesday, March 27th, at the place to be chosen by the winners of the two leagues.

Myrtle Crouch has charge of the award, which will be in the form of a bronze plaque with a wooden border containing the name of the sorority winning and the date.

The inter-sorority bridge contest is taking the place of the annual bowling contest held in previous years. The bowling matches have always been keenly contested and it is anticipated that even more rivalry and interest will be manifested in the bridge contest. Kappa Delta Sorority, who won the bowling cup last year, will become its permanent possessor because of the fact that they will not have a chance to defend its possession.

G. W. FENCERS WILL MEET HOLTON ARMS

First Match For Newly Organized Team; Betty Zimmerman Captain

The Girls' Fencing team of George Washington University will meet the fencers of Holton Arms on Wednesday, March 21, at 3.30 o'clock, in the gymnasium. This match is the first in which a Colonial fencing squad has participated and will be a novel and interesting competition.

By the process of elimination, Major Walter Blount, the coach in fencing at both George Washington University and Holton Arms, has selected the G. W. team from among the various girls who have been interested in fencing at the University. It is made up of three girls, who are Elizabeth Zimmerman, captain, Florence Merriam and Nannie L'Anson.

Last week the fencing class saw the Naval Academy's team in action, when they journeyed down to Annapolis with Major Blount and Miss Davis. The match between Yale and Annapolis was a new and valuable experience for the squad as in the tilt they saw three kinds of fencing; that with foils, sabers and with spears.

INTERNATIONAL LAW NOW MOSTLY COMMERCIAL

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (IP).—"There is no such thing as international law," declared Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, speaking here recently. "International relations are veering farther and farther away from the ancient conceptions, and are becoming more commercial in all respects. It is this gradual reformation which today is opening up a fertile field for the activities of American men, and especially American law students, who may wish to serve either their country in the diplomatic service, or to enter into business with concerns having foreign interests."

FURTHER ARRANGEMENTS FOR PAN-HEL PROM MADE

Avril Stewart and Gene Cuvillier of Kappa Delta are in charge of the Pan-Hellenic Prom to be held April 20, if a hotel large enough to accommodate the Prom can be secured for that date.

Kappa Delta sorority was put in charge of the Prom at the meeting of the Council several weeks ago. At present the Mayflower is the tentative hotel to be used, but the agreement has not been closed.

DR. HILL'S CLASS HEARS M'DONALD

Assistant U. S. Agent Before Mixed Claims Commission Speaks in Class

OUTLINES CLAIM WORK

International Law Class is Told of Growth of Mexican-American Claims Commission

"The claim of a citizen of one state against another state becomes in a sense a national claim and is controlled exclusively by the government of the state." This statement was made by J. J. McDonald, assistant agent for the United States before the Mexican-American Mixed Claims Commission, in a talk before Dr. Charles E. Hill's class in international law last Thursday morning.

In outlining the work of the Mexican-American Mixed Claims Commission, Mr. McDonald took as a typical example of the work of the commission the case of Agnes Connelly et al., involving a claim for damages resulting from the murder of an American citizen in Mexico.

Describes Adjudication

The various steps in carrying a claim before the commission for adjudication were described by the speaker, who traced the development from the time the first pleading, or "memorial," is filed until the claim is settled.

Mr. McDonald sketched the history of the Mixed Claims Commission, from its inception in 1924, up to the present time. There are two distinct organs for the adjudication of claims, he pointed out, the General and the Special Claims Commissions.

In death claims, the speaker said, the amount of the award is determined by the amount of loss and damages, which is in turn determined by the amount which might have been contributed by the decedent.

He also pointed out that there are 35 different types of claims which come before the General Mixed Claims Commission. The commission is composed, said Mr. McDonald, of one American, one Mexican, and one neutral member, who is the presiding commissioner.

PEP CLUB PLANS DRIVE FOR STUDENT SUPPORT

Dance Next Saturday May be Last Unless Students Give Support

What may be the last PEP Club dance of the year will be held in the Gymnasium, Saturday, March 17, unless heartier support is forthcoming from the student body. The PEP Club is on the verge of discontinuing its dances because of the lack of student support. Throughout the entire school year these dances have been failures in a financial way, although only in a financial way, but the club wishes to appeal to the student body for increased attendance before it discontinues the dances. Their object is to increase a friendly spirit among G. W. students, and they have gone a long way in serving their purpose.

The dances are held every Saturday in the Gymnasium, starting at 12.15. Excellent music is furnished every time by one of the two orchestras, "The Naomi Band" and the "Tommy Tompkins Troubadours," which play on alternate Saturdays. The committee in charge is making special preparations for next Saturday's dance in an effort to build up a larger patronage among the students. The "Naomi Band" will furnish music featuring selections of college songs, and entertainment will be furnished by Jazbo John.

The admission charge will be fifteen cents per couple or per stag. This arrangement has been made to increase the number of girls at the dances.

Election of officers for the club's second year on the campus will take place at the meeting to be held in C. H. 1, Thursday, April 5. These officers will direct the club's activities next year.

Episcopal Club Plans Membership Drive

Delegates to Tri-Diocesan Conference Make Report on Work of Gathering

At the last meeting of the Episcopal Club on Thursday, March 8, at St. Paul's parish hall, plans for increasing membership were discussed and the following membership committee appointed: Alice Graham, chairman, Mary Lewis Beard and Mildred Thomas.

Stephen Scott and Mary Lewis Beard, delegates to the recent Tri-Diocesan Conference, at which the Episcopal Club of George Washington acted as host, gave reports on the work of the Conference.

The program committee reported a series of talks to be given during Lent at the meetings of the club. Coleman Jennings has invited the club to a meeting at his home.

ENGINEERS MUST LEARN ENGLISH SAYS GEN. FRIES

Chemical Warfare Service Chief Advises Students to Practice Public Speaking

T. H. SAWYER SPEAKS ALSO BEFORE A. S. C. E.

Says Members Should Give Society More Than They Expect to Receive From It

By JAMES G. WINGO

"Acquire a ready command of the English language," was the advice of Major General Amos Alfred Fries to the engineering students at the last meeting of the G. W. student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers last Wednesday evening, March 7, in Corcoran Hall, in the course of his talk on his engineering experiences.

More than thirty engineering students listened with great interest to the chief of the Chemical Warfare Service of the United States Army. Dean Lapham of the School of Engineering and T. H. Sawyer, director of the Washington division of the A. S. C. E., were also present.

"Practice public speaking as thoroughly as you learn your chemistry, your physics and your mathematics," continued General Fries. "As an engineer I have spoken to various audiences to put over my plans. You will be asked, as I was, to speak even before Ladies' Friday Morning Clubs. I say this to you as if I were talking to my fourteen-year-old boy in high school."

"Do Not Waste Effort," He Says

"Fit your engineering knowledge to local conditions. Never take extra refinement in your engineering work that is not needed. Do not waste valuable effort. As an engineer, it is impossible if business warrants it. In Los Angeles an artificial harbor was designed. Now it has been paying for a long time for itself."

Since he graduated from West Point in 1898, General Fries has been engaged in many engineering projects of the government. He assisted in the building of fortifications at the mouth of the Columbia River. He was chief of the Chemical Service of the A. E. F. during the World War, and was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal of the United States and a commandership in the Legion of Honor of France.

Talks of Los Angeles Harbor

His talk on the Los Angeles harbor interested the embryo engineers. They listened eagerly as General Fries told them about the problems that he had to face in his work in improving the harbor.

The general took the occasion to compliment his former associate in the "early days," a Mr. Hughes, an engineer. "I cannot give enough credit to that man," he said. "He certainly did give me some of the finest ideas I ever knew."

Director T. H. Sawyer was introduced to the society by the president, Wentworth B. Clapham. Mr. Sawyer spoke mainly about the A. S. C. E. and its activities.

"Your connection with the A. S. C. E. will be one of the things you will cherish all your life," said Mr. Sawyer. "Endeavor to contribute to the society more than you expect to receive from it."

"In the society you acquire much technical knowledge essential to your profession. You learn how to meet other engineers on equal footing. You rub elbows with the best of them."

Society to Convene Here

"During the week of April 25, the spring meeting of the society will convene in Washington. Members will come from every state and many foreign countries. At one o'clock, in the afternoon of the first day we shall take our picture with President Coolidge. I trust the George Washington University authorities will give you enough facilities to attend the meetings. Successful engineers will be glad to meet you."

Mr. Sawyer also spoke of the engineer's prospects in the contracting field. He said that if an engineer wanted to go into this business, he should enter it early in life, for it would be better to get into the line you are most adapted when you are still young. He stated also that there is plenty of romance connected with this phase of engineering.

A moving picture, as usual, was shown to the members of the society after the speakers were through. This time the picture was about compressed steam.

THREE-FOLD PROGRAM AT SCARAB MEETING

Initiation, Lecture and Dinner at Occidental Feature Banner Night

Tuesday, March 6th, proved to be the big night of the year at the Architectural School. The program under the auspices of the Scarabs, divided itself into three parts; first, the initiation; second, an address by Mr. Louis Simon; and third, a dinner at the Occidental.

Early in the evening the Scarabs initiated into Ammon Temple Mr. Richard Fourchey and Mr. Eugene Weiss, of the faculty of the Architectural School, Mr. Richard Sutton, an alumnus, and Russell Clarvoe, Hall Matthews, Morris Schaub, and D. Frank Clango, students in the school.

This was followed by a lecture by Mr. Louis Simon who is head of the Architecture Division of the Treasury. He spoke on the "Phases of the Federal Building Program," illustrating his lecture with slides showing proposed plans of the buildings to be built as well as pictures of the buildings already erected. This was the first of a series of lectures to be given under the auspices of the Scarabs. The next talk will be early in April by Professor Elmer Louis Kayser, who will talk on "Lorenzo the Magnificent."

The last feature of the night was the dinner at the Occidental. Mr. Manly Peele, who is President of Ammon Temple, introduced Robert (Bob) Barnes, who acted as toastmaster. Addresses were made by the initiates, Professor Crandall and Professor Kayser. Mr. Samuel Graham Wetzel, of Thebes Temple, the Scarab Chapter at Penn State, who came down for the initiation, also spoke.

DEBATERS FAVOR STRONGER NAVY AS U. S. DEFENSE

Pacifists Find Militarists Exactly One Too Many At Debate

DEBATERS TO HAVE BIG BANQUET AFTER EASTER

Gallagher Appoints Three to Take Charge of Affair; April 13 Tentative Date

The Columbian Debating Society endorsed the naval construction bill as originally proposed after one of the longest debates in its long history last Friday evening, March 9, in Corcoran Hall 15.

Many debaters, including several co-eds, witnessed how the militarists and pacifists swayed the house from one side to the other until the question was finally put to a vote, when the pacifists were forced to admit that there was exactly one too many militarists in the society.

C. A. Brubaker and George M. Terry fought for the indorsement of the naval construction bill. J. F. Jackson and D. L. Hatch upheld the negative side.

Pleads for Navy

The first speaker for the affirmative, Brubaker, made an impassioned plea for a stronger navy of the United States.

"The proposed naval building program is not militaristic," Brubaker asserted. "We want only a force strong enough to prove our faith in those things that our country stands for."

"The cruisers are the eyes of the navy. They are our watch-dogs in the Panama Canal. We must now declare our intention to favoring more cruisers for our defense."

Jackson, the first constructive speaker for the negative, apparently convinced many of the members of the Columbian Debating Society that on the horizon could be seen only smiling faces with peaceful attitude toward the United States.

No Necessity for Building

"There is at present no necessity for a big naval building program, for there is no danger of war with other nations, except possibly with Nicaragua," argued Jackson. The negative does not contend pacifism for the United States, but that it is undesirable now to increase her naval strength.

"Furthermore, there is no necessity for asserting that we are strong when the whole world knows that the United States can compete with any of them, if necessary."

George M. Terry argued convincingly that the United States must have a strong navy if she wishes to have her investments abroad secure.

"We have $13,000,000,000 invested abroad," said Terry. "A comparatively little amount, as $750,000,000, the amount now required by this naval bill, is an insignificant insurance fee on such a big investment and on the wealth of the country. Great Britain is entirely right in having a force strong enough for her self-defense in case another war should break, which is most likely."

Hatch Condemns Bill

D. L. Hatch made an eloquent talk against the naval bill. He said that the United States grew to be the greatest nation in the world without the help of an unnecessarily huge navy.

Refuting the contention of the affirmative that if the United States could spend hundreds of millions of dollars for candy and cosmetics and other beauty enhancers, why could she not spend $750,000,000 for her protection, Hatch declared, "I would rather have an invasion of the English fleet than take away from our women their rouge, powders, perfumes, etc. Those are their protection."

"We ask the affirmative," continued Hatch, "when this next war they are talking about will come. I believe that what they want is to place back retired admirals on the pay roll."

Several members spoke from the floor and they made debate unusually spirited. Charles Laughlin stated that it was safer to rely on a strong nation than the help of France or any other nation. L. C. Stukes said that the naval bill would only make Congress issue more divers' medals. The $750,000,000 would only make a bigger sinking fund for the navy.

Localism Hit

Jacob Rosenthal wondered why North Dakota should be made to pay for the safety of his home town, New York. Captain W. S. Rumbaugh argued, "We can not rely for our safety on treaties." Lewis Denbitz said that he could not see why all taxpayers of the United States should pay for the protection of a few investors abroad.

The society decided after the debate to have a banquet sometime next month. President E. C. Gallagher appointed J. L. Lyons, W. S. Rumbaugh and James G. Wingo to form the committee to take charge of the whole affair. The committee had tentatively decided to have the banquet after Easter, Friday evening, April 13. Other details of the banquet are being worked out by the committee.

Laughlin introduced a resolution to stop facetiousness and humorous story telling in Columbian debates. Wingo moved a motion to lay the resolution on the table, which was carried.

Several new members were initiated at the debate. Among them was Marie Nohl.

The subject of the debate for Friday, March 16, will be: Resolved, That this House believes that idealism is incompatible with intelligence. Jacob Rosenthal and Wroe Alderson will maintain the affirmative, while Lionel C. Stukes and Lewis Denbitz will uphold the negative.

GEORGE F. WILLIAMS IS MADE COURT AUDITOR

Was Law Student at George Washington; Has Been Practicing for Forty Years

George Francis Williams, local attorney and former George Washington law student, has been appointed court auditor by the justices of the District Supreme Court upon the resignation of Herbert L. Davis.

Mr. Williams has served as a special auditor several times during his forty years' practice of law. He was born in Chester, Pennsylvania, in 1864, but he spent his boyhood in Washington, D. C. In 1889 he was admitted to the bar and nine years later he was authorized to practice before the United States Supreme Court.

He was associated with the late Benjamin F. Leighton. Later he formed a partnership with Henry C. Clark, giving the name of Williams and Clark to the firm. He is now associated with his eldest son, Ernest F. Williams.

Mr. Williams holds many important positions, such as trust officer of Lincoln National Bank, and trustee of Washington Orphan Asylum and of the Bliss Electrical School. He will assume this new post on April 2.

Girls' Glee Club Gives Naval Hospital Concert

Concert in Corcoran Hall on April 8, With String Quartet is Goal of Organization

Estelle Wentworth directed a concert of the Girls' Glee Club given at the Naval Hospital on February 28. "June Rhapsody," "Mighty Lak A Rose," "I Passed By Your Window," "I Love A Little Cottage," and a medley of war songs were sung by the club as a unit, and "Daisies," "The Nightingale," "The Clock," "Alphabet," "Love's Benediction," and "Heart's Ease and Roses," by the group. Much applause was given to the medley, in which the last verse or two of each song swings skillfully into the next song.

Refreshments were served, and there was dancing afterwards.

Two goals have been set for the club this spring: a concert to be given April 3, in Corcoran Hall 1, at eight o'clock, with the assistance of the George Washington String Quartet, and the Confederation of Music Clubs Spring Festival, to be held in May.

Miss Wentworth announces that there is still room for trained soprano voices in the club. Anyone interested may apply to her on Mondays at 12.10, in Corcoran Hall 1.

MASONIC CLUB MEETS AT IVY VINE TONIGHT

The officers elected at the last meeting will be installed by the Advisory Board of the District of Columbia League of Masonic Clubs at this time. Mr. James O. Bowen, Chairman of the National Committee on Cherry Blossom distribution will be present to give some of the results of the Washington's Birthday campaign.

The club will hold a card party on the evening of the twenty-sixth of March, at the Chestnut Farms Auditorium at Twenty-sixth and Pennsylvania Avenue. The affair will be for the benefit of the endowment of two chairs in the new School of Government to be established at George Washington University.

CONFERENCE ACCEPTS MEMBERSHIP PETITION

Sigma Mu Sigma Admitted to Junior Membership in National Interfraternity Conference

Sigma Mu Sigma's petition for membership in the National Interfraternity Conference has been acted upon favorably, and was admitted to junior membership on January 11, 1928, according to recent announcements by the National Secretary. After the period of one year has expired from the date of admission, the fraternity will be automatically eligible to full senior membership.

The Sigma Mu Sigma Fraternity

was founded in 1921 by Master Masons at the Tri-State College. There are now seven chapters: Alpha at Tri-State College, Angola, Ind.; Beta at University of Oklahoma; Delta at Milwaukee Engineering College; Epsilon at The George Washington University; Zeta at Purdue University; Eta at University of Illinois; Theta at Oklahoma A. and M.

On Friday, March 2, 1928, a banquet was given by the local Epsilon Chapter at the City Club. An enthusiastic group of fraternity brothers turned out. James R. Mitchell, who is a member of the City Club, conducted the fraternity members through the club rooms in the role of host and explained the various uses thereof and the functions of the club.

GEOLOGISTS HEAR GRIGGS SPEAK ON EXPEDITION IN '13

Moving Pictures And Colored Slides Accompany Lecture On "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes"

RESULTS OF ERUPTIONS STUDIED BY SCIENTISTS

Fumeroles Provide Heat for Cooking in Steaming Valley, Snowbank Provides Water

Dr. Griggs, head of the Botany Department, spoke last Tuesday evening to Sigma Gamma Epsilon, professional Geological fraternity, about his discovery of "The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes," and about his research carried on there as the leader of several expeditions sent by the National Geographic Society. The lecture was accompanied by moving pictures and colored plates.

In 1912 one of the most tremendous volcanic eruptions of history occurred in a remote and uninhabited part of the Aleutian Peninsula. It will give some idea of the magnitude of the eruption to say that the material thrown out by it was sufficient to intercept about 10 per cent of the sun's rays and thereby cause the notoriously cold and wet summer of 1912.

It was to study the effect which this eruption had on vegetation that Dr. Griggs was sent in 1913. Work was begun at Katmai, 100 miles from Katmai, where the ashfall had been about one foot thick, and it was found that even in spite of this blanket vegetation seemed to be as luxuriant as ever in some places though there were others which were a bare expanse of ash.

Expedition Studied Volcano

The expedition also studied the region near Katmai and even the volcano itself. The view down into the crater was fascinating. Dr. Griggs said, "Far, far beneath us, how far we could not even guess, lay a wonderful blue lake of boiling water, milky like one of the Swiss glacial lakes."

By comparing the size of the crater with the original size of the volcano it was possible to compute that the amount of material which had been

"PRO" FRATERNAL GROUPS ORGANIZE

Graduate Groups in Washington Recently Drew Up Plan

SCOPE OF GROUP IS FIXED

Meeting to be Held in New York in November For Final Action

The preparatory conference of the professional fraternities was held at the Hamilton Hotel recently. Thirty-eight delegates representing twenty-seven professional fraternities thoroughly discussed the proposal to establish an interfraternity association and were unanimous in the belief that it would be of great value to the fraternities.

The delegates agreed upon a Constitution to be submitted to their respective fraternities for ratification, and elected provisional officers. A plenary session will meet in New York on November 30 to report on the action taken in the meetings of the respective fraternity groups.

For purposes of determining eligibility of membership in the new association, the term "professional" was defined by a committee, to be as follows: The profession shall: (1) Be generally recognized by universities and colleges as a profession, by the creation of courses therein in separate special colleges, departments, or schools leading to recognized degrees therein, distinct from the usual general degrees in arts, science, or letters; (2) Have a recognized code of ethics generally accepted as binding upon the members thereof; (3) Recognize the duty of public service as binding upon the members thereof; and (4) Require principally mental labor and skill for its successful prosecution.

The categories as approved for eligibility in the Association are: Medical, Law, Dental, Engineering, including Electrical Engineering, Commerce, Education, Architecture, Chemistry and Pharmaceutical.

blown out by the eruption was two cubic miles.

Of the discovery of the Valley he said, "It was merely to gratify idle curiosity that we climbed the pass. More than once before we reached the divide we were almost ready to turn back. But when we reached the top a sight met our eyes which made the crater pale into insignificance. For there as far as eye could see lay a great valley from whose floor were ascending thousands, no, millions of columns of steam."

All Modern Conveniences

Dr. Griggs showed a picture of a bar of lead melting as soon as it was held over a fumerole; but this, he assured the audience, was a comparatively cool one. There were other pictures showing how housekeeping in the valley was managed. He showed bacon and flapjacks being fried over fumeroles, though one had to be careful that it was not blown away by the force with which the steam came out of the ground. Baked beans and rice were set into the ground at night and were cooked, as in a fireless cooker, for breakfast. And on the very edge of this steaming valley was a snow bank which supplied the camp with water.

The only necessity which was lacking was wood. That had all been killed by the volcanic fumes and buried by lava; and every stick for tent poles or other uses had to be packed in on the men's backs. They had to carry, in fact, everything that they used; tents, blankets, food and instruments. And if something had been forgotten there was no way of getting it. They would have had to wait until their little boat came back to get them.

The region around Mount Katmai, including the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, was made into Katmai National Monument by President Wilson, who took time to do this during the war. The area of the park is over a million acres.

AEROPLANE vs. AUTO

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—(IP)—That the airplane will soon develop into an industry competing with that of the automobile, is the belief of Count Igor Silorsky, well known airplane designer, who spoke recently under the auspices of the Yale Aeronautical Society.

Silorsky declared that the airplane will soon become a competitor with the railroads and steamship lines, and cruising speeds of three to four hundred miles an hour will be common within our generation.

Unwelcome Radio "Squeals" Are Found To Be Quite Useful By Russian Prof.

Professor Leo Ssergejewitch Theremin, of University of Leningrad, Claims Invention of New Musical Instrument Utilizing "Howling" of Radio Sets; To Demonstrate Invention Here

By WILLIAM J. ELLENBERGER

This is the age of efficiency and utilization of waste materials. The latest invention is a new musical instrument utilizing the principle of the audio-frequency "squeal" that sometimes annoys radio listeners.

The inventor of this device is a young Russian Electrical Engineer, Prof. Leo Ssergejewitch Theremin, of the University of Leningrad. The underlying principles upon which the instrument is designed have been known to radio engineers for some time. Musical tones are simply air oscillations at audio-frequencies. However, the vacuum tube may be made to oscillate at comparatively low frequency within audible range.

In order to bring about this change artificially it is necessary to arrange a partial feedback circuit with the proper electrical constants to produce the required tone. The output may then be fed into a loud speaker, in order to convert the electrical oscillations into ordinary sounds in the form of musical tones.

Body Capacity is Used

While little is known about Prof. Theremin's instrument it is understood that he controls both volume and tone by holding his hands or moving them in the vicinity of certain electrical conductors, thus using the phenomena of body capacity in tuning.

Prof. Theremin claims that his apparatus is easy to operate and that any one who is musical can learn without much difficulty. If this is so perhaps in a few years every well furnished home will have one of these new musical instruments along with its piano, victrola and radio set.

It should be noted that this device is not the first of its kind. Many similar devices have been built in the past but there are difficulties that must be overcome before even Prof. Theremin's apparatus is a commercial success. Notable among those who have worked on the problem in the past is Dr. Lee DeForest, the well-known inventor and radio engineer.

To Demonstrate Here

In an article published several years ago in one of the radio magazines Dr. DeForest described what he called: "My Orchestra of Audions." His device was very similar to Prof. Theremin's except that he depended for tuning the circuit on a system of interchangeable fixed condensers rather than body capacity.

A still earlier device was the "telharmonium" based on the same principles but not using the vacuum tube as an oscillation generator. Due to the superiority of the vacuum tube over any other oscillation generator the "telharmonium" has been superseded by these later instruments.

Prof. Theremin expects to be in Washington between May 3 and 10, to demonstrate his invention.

CONTRACT PLACED FOR SENIOR RINGS

Auld's, Inc., of Columbus, Ohio, Promise Four-Week Service

GIVE PENALTY GUARANTEE

Ordering to be Handled Through Quigley's Drug Store, When Samples are on Display

A delay in the delivery of a Senior ring for '28, will be to the pecuniary advantage of the purchaser.

Auld's, Inc., of Columbus, Ohio, jewelers, who were again awarded the contract for the G. W. U. Senior Class Ring, when the Ring Committee, composed of the Senior Presidents reached a decision on Tuesday evening, March 6, offer a penalty guarantee. This warranty reads to the effect that a ring will be delivered within four weeks after the order has been placed. A penalty of one dollar for each day of non-delivery after the factory has had the order for four weeks will be paid to the orderer of a ring.

All members of the committee agreed that, taking price, quality, design, and all such factors into consideration, Auld's have presented the most attractive. Other jewelers submitting bids were Balfour and Co. of New York and two local establishments, Pearson and Crain, and R. Harris.

The ordering will be handled at Quigley's Drug Store. A deposit of five dollars is required when the order is placed. A few types of the rings are on display there now, and the full line of various gems set in both the small and the large sized rings will be available as soon as Auld's has made them up, which will be in the near future.

The ring this year will be made in the standard G. W. U. form, from ten-carat gold. The prices range from $10.50 to $21.50 for the small rings, and from $15.00 to $24.50 for the large ones.

The President, Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, was assisted in the receiving line by Mrs. D. C. Chace, Mrs. Charles S. Collier, Miss Julia McMillan, Miss Harriet E. Garrells and Miss Rhoda Watkins. Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle and Miss Elizabeth Peet presided at the punch bowl.

GLEE CLUB SONGS WIN HIGH FAVOR

Club Features Numbers From Troubadour Show At Recent Concert

APPEAR AT KEITH'S SOON

Columbia University Club to Appear in Joint Recital on April 14

The George Washington University Glee Club gave a concert at the Church of the Covenant on the evening of March 6. The club was under the direction of Robert Howe Harmon, assisted by Mrs. Grace Rubie Harmon at the piano.

In addition to the chorus numbers of the club which were enthusiastically received, there were several quartet selections of the Glee Club Quartet composed of Robert Ferguson, Jimmie Fleck, James McClain and Elmer Gorn. Robert Ferguson and James McClain rendered vocal solos and Herman Weihe played a violin number. Mrs. Harmon assisted with several pianologues.

A feature of the evening was the rendition of excerpts from the recent Troubadour production, "Sharps and Frats," the lyrics of which were written by Larry Parker and the music by Elmer Brown. Earl Nalls, the tenor of the play while at Wardman Park, and Jerry Slicker as bass carried through the familiar numbers of "Over a Garden Gate," "Cottage of Dreams," "College Memories," and "See What Love Did." Elmer Brown, assisted at the piano. The program was closed with a choral number "Alma Mater," written and dedicated to George Washington by Elmer Brown.

The Glee Club will appear at the Midnight Show of the National Vaudeville Actors' benefit performance to be held at Keith's Theater on April 13. On April 14 the Columbia University Glee Club will appear in Washington and render a joint concert with the George Washington Club. As yet the place of the concert is unannounced, but it is expected that it will be held probably at the Mayflower or the New Willard Hotel.

CONDITIONS IN POLAND SUBJECT OF ADDRESS

Miss Louise McGuire Tells Newman Club of War-Time Experiences in Poland

Miss Louise McGuire of the National Catholic Service School addressed the Newman Club Tuesday evening in Corcoran Hall. She spoke on "War-time Experiences in Poland." The talk was one of the most interesting and outstanding discussions of the year.

Miss McGuire's well-known ability and experience drew a large crowd. For several years she has been a leading light in social service work, especially in the Middle West, but for the past three years she has been devoting most of her time to the training of others.

She had done a great deal of work in this country prior to the United States' entrance into the World War, and was one of the women elected to go to Poland to help relieve conditions there. She described vividly the nature of her work in the last two years of the war when she was associated with Father Walsh and others in an effort to save the starving people of Poland.

She told of the efforts to get food and clothing to the helpless ones whose fortunes had been ruined by the war, and how they had to fight not only against hunger, but disease as well, and all this with little or no help from the Soviet government. Her picture of the difficulties the relief workers had to meet during the successive epidemics of fever was especially vivid.

She concluded with a short description of her journey home after she had been relieved, and gave a very good picture of Germany, France and Italy after the armistice.
